Opening Fall Enrollment, Fall 2013<sup>1</sup>

- Total headcount enrollment at all Maryland institutions is 357,394, down 10,064 from Fall 2012 enrollment of 367,458, and down 15,965 from the all-time high of 373,359 students in Fall 2011. In percentage terms, enrollment declined 2.7% from Fall 2012 and 4.3% from Fall 2011.
- This is the first time since 1992-1993 that enrollment has declined in consecutive years. In addition, the 2013 decline marks the largest year-to-year decrease, both in headcount and by percentage, in at least 30 years.
- As shown in Figure 1, total enrollment has returned to Fall 2009 levels, suggesting that the decline in enrollment appears to be linked to the broader economic recovery. During the ten year period 1998-2007, enrollment grew at an average annual rate of 2.5%. During the recession years of 2008-2010, enrollment growth rose to an average annual rate of 4.2%.

- Another indicator suggesting that the enrollment decline is connected to economic recovery is that decreases were larger among graduate students and part-time students. These populations are more likely to enroll when they are unemployed or underemployed.

<sup>1</sup>This report highlights preliminary data on fall enrollment submitted by Maryland colleges and universities. Final enrollment figures presented later in the term may differ slightly from those included in this report.

Undergraduate enrollment declined by 2.6%, from 296,805 to 288,951, while graduate enrollment declined by 3.1%, from 70,653 to 68,443. Full-time enrollment declined by 1.7%, while part-time enrollment declined by 3.9%.

- Figure 2 illustrates the pattern of enrollment by sector. The community college sector saw the largest one-year decline. Since community colleges experienced the largest growth in the years 2008-2012, it might be expected that they bear a slightly larger share of this year's decline. The number of students enrolling at community colleges declined from 145,085 to 139,198, a decrease of 4.1%. Fifteen of the sixteen community colleges experienced enrollment declines; Howard Community College saw an increase of 0.7%.

- Enrollment at public four-year colleges and universities declined from 165,488 to 162,849, a decrease of 1.6%. Enrollment declined at eight of the thirteen institutions in this sector, while increasing at five institutions. The largest percentage declines occurred at Coppin State University (-6.3%) and University of Maryland University College (-6.1%), while the largest increases occurred at Bowie State University (2.6%) and Towson University (2.5%).
- Enrollment at private colleges and universities declined from 56,885 to 55,347, a decrease of 2.7%. However, a significant share of that decrease is attributable to the removal of Washington Bible College from the category, which was purchased by an out-of-state entity. When Washington Bible College is removed from the 2012 enrollment total, the decrease for the sector is 2.0%. Enrollment at independent (i.e., state-aided not-for-profit private) institutions declined from 52,990 to 51,953, a decrease of 2.0%, while at other Maryland private institutions, enrollment declined from 3,394 to 3,461, a decrease of 1.9%.

- First-time, full-time enrollment declined by 0.4%, from 37,253 in Fall 2012 to 37,121 in Fall 2013. This is the fourth consecutive year in which first-time, full-time enrollments decreased. The community college sector saw its enrollment of first-time, full-time students increase by 1.3%, while the four-year public sector saw its enrollment increase by 1.5%. The independent sector saw its enrollment of first-time, full-time students decline by 3.6%, while all other private institutions saw a decrease of 19.8%. Although the Maryland State Department of Education has not yet released the number of public high school graduates for 2012-2013, it is interesting to note that the number of high school completers increased from 59,452 in 2010-2011 to 59,628 in 2011-2012, an increase of 0.3%. However, the number of first-time, full-time students attending Maryland institutions decreased from 39,502 in Fall 2011 to 37,401 in Fall 2012, a decrease of 5.3%.
